Mr. VOORHEES: A hornet is small | would prove a disturbing elemen not conducive to quiet deliberations, which should characterize the session.

THE following from the New York Times may explain the recent reconciliation of Sara and her last affinity, good food being a wonderful stimulant to good

Sarah Bernhardt was made a present of parrel of Lynn Haven oysters not long ago by a New York man who has business connection at Norfolk, Va. The barrel sent to Sarah was filled with educated ovsters. The ovsters were ducated this way: Each oyster was set upo end, in layers, i. small tubs. Care was of ourse taken to pack the oysters with their mouths upward. Several small tubs were filled n this way at intervals of several hours. were then transferred to a barrel which had able head, and before they were placed on board the steamer Guyandotte they were fed on salt water and catmeal, made of such consistency that it trickled slowly from on layer of oysters to another on its way to the bottom of the barrel. Orders were given that the oysters should be fed in this way on alterrate days until they reached their desit nation. The man who packed them promied that if his directions were followed the oys ters would be alive and in good condition at the end of two weeks. The barrel, as it stood on the pier of the Old Domision Steamship line at Norfolk, coat $13. It was brought to New York on the Guyandette, was at once transferred to a steamer of the French Line and by her delivered at Marseilles. Thence 1 was shipped by rail to Paris, and when this barrel of as fine oysters as were ever produce at Lynn Haven reached its destination every pyster was large, fat and alive, and as frisky in his subdued way as the Bernhardt herself.

THE Houston Age agrees with THE GAZETTE that an investigation of the charges of bribery made by Mr. M. C. Harris against the capitol sub contractor would demonstrate the truth of the matter. The Age says: "The charge is a serious one and the Legislature will but do its duty and meet public expectation by appointing a committee and having this investigation. Where a direct charge of bribery or corruption in relation to any matter of public interest is made, it should be investigated and the truth or falsity of the charge ascertained." THE GAZETTE suggested an investigation of the charges in the interest of truth. Mr. Harris charges bribery; the bisckmail sub-contractor charges against Mr. Harris; an investigation would demonstrate the truth, and both parties should court investigation by the Legislature-especially as inattention on the part of the Legislature will convince some people that Mr. Harris was actuated by unworthy motives and especially as Mr. Harris' persistency will convince some other people that he has reasons for the faith that is in him. A late issue of the Austin Dispatch says: "All things come to him who waits. And the Dispatch can bide its time. It has done its duty and can patiently await its vindicasons roll around."

THE INTER-STATE LAW. The inter-state commerce act is working better than a great many people supposed would be the case, but that it has many crudities and defects is conceded by all who have any practical concern in its operations. Congress admits that it needs more tinkering to make it what its author intended and desired, and in both Houses several amendments The Methodist brethren, in convention now pending. It is alleged than an amendment of this nature is a necessity to deal with abuses of the law that are complained of all over the country. The penalties seem severe but are not more so than some for violation of other clauses of the law. Frank Leslis's Popular Monthly for May. Attention is fixed on Germany. One veteran ruler, the Emperor William, has just passed away, and the grave is even now ready to receive his successor. The crown will rest on three heads in a single year. There are elements of deep interest in a reign like that of the Emperor William, whose life covered most of our stirring century. The story can be read in a finely illustrated article in Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly for May "he number deals with our land, and Mr.

Dr. Van Fleet gives a delightful study of our native warblers. Another article tells of "Prjevalski's Adventures in Centrel Asia," showing how Russia is laying her plans for pushing her sway to borders of China and India, or perhaps beyond them. Our great university— Harvard, is brought before us in its actual condition and early history; and what lessons the photograph teaches of the flight of birds by showing a series of instantaneous pictures, makes very cur-ious reading. What with all this and stories by Mrs.J. G.Austin, F. B Hallowell, Etta W. Pierce and others, the magazine gives an endless amount of interesting and attractive reading.
